FEAA - CONSTRUCTION PROJECT PREQUALIFICATION

Except as otherwise provided in this policy, prequalification for District construction projects shall be governed by Policies DJ (Purchasing), DJA (Purchasing Authority), DJB (Purchasing Procedures) and DJG/DJGA (Vendor Relations, Sales Calls and Demonstrations). As used in this policy, “construction projects” include new facility construction, additions and remodel/retrofit, as well as infrastructure installation and modifications.

Design professionals, construction managers and contractors may be prequalified for one or more of the following types of District construction projects, which shall include new facility construction, additions and remodel/retrofit: (a) early childhood and elementary schools; (b) middle schools; (c) high schools; (d) administrative buildings; and/or (e) athletic facilities. Design professionals, construction managers and contractors may also be prequalified for various types of infrastructure installation and modifications, as determined by the director of construction services or director of facility services.

Design professionals, construction managers and contractors shall be prequalified at least once every five years. Prequalified design professionals, construction managers and contractors shall be eligible to submit price quotes and to participate in competitive bidding and competitive proposal processes for the award of contracts on District construction projects. The purpose of prequalification is to streamline the process of securing contracts on District construction projects by ensuring that all design professionals, construction managers and contractors that participate in the contract award process are properly qualified and able to perform the work if selected. Prequalification shall not be used to award a contract without the required procedures for price quotes, competitive bidding or competitive proposals.

The determination of whether a design professional or construction manager is prequalified shall be based on the information it provides in a Statement of Qualifications and in response to follow-up inquiries from the District, if any. The required form and content of the Statement of Qualifications for design professionals and construction managers shall be jointly established by the Construction Services Department or Facility Services Department and the Purchasing and Materials Management Department, and shall include the following information:

Whether the design professional/construction manager or any of its principals has ever declared bankruptcy under their current names or a former name.

Whether the design professional/construction manager or any of its principals has ever made an assignment for the benefit of creditors.

Whether there are any unsatisfied judgments or liens against the design professional/construction manager or any of its principals.

The determination of whether a contractor is prequalified shall be based on the information it provides in a Statement of Qualifications and in response to follow-up inquiries from the District, if any.
